

FOREWARD

I am very pleased to introduce to you the inaugural issue of the Journal of Engineering Science and Technology (JESTEC). JESTEC is a peer reviewed Journal that publishes original research works in all areas of engineering including engineering education. Our aim is to provide our authors and readers a venue for rapid dissemination of information pertaining to developments in engineering science and technology while preserving the highest quality standards. To achieve this, a total number of 12 individuals serve on the Editorial Board. They represent highly respected academic institutions around the world from Australia, Canada, India, Malaysia and the UK.

The amount of work involved in establishing JESTEC has been enormous. This endeavour would not have been possible without the hard work of the advisor, editors and reviewers, the support of Taylor's College management and most importantly the trust of the contributors.

To our authors, we thank you for the support and look forward to work with you. We recognise that our success depends primarily on the quality of your submissions. To our readers, we will always do our best to provide you with publication that is current, useful and dynamic and we always welcome your suggestions. To every one who have contributed to this issue, a very big Thank You.
